July 10th is Panic Attack Awareness Day

A panic attack is a sudden episode of intense fear or discomfort that reaches a peak within minutes and includes a variety of physical and cognitive symptoms. These attacks can be extremely frightening, and individuals experiencing them often feel as if they are losing control, having a heart attack, or even dying. Panic attacks can affect anyone regardless of race, ethnicity, gender, or background. However, certain factors specific to the Black community can influence the prevalence, experience, and treatment of panic attacks such as: cultural stigma, access to mental health care, stress/trauma, and underdiagnosis/misdiagnosis.
